Chapter

Handbook

June 2020 Version

This handbook is designed to assist every Michigan DECA member. It is hoped that our members will find this handbook a valuable resource in providing needed information and suggestions in carrying out a chapter's program of work throughout the school year. The purpose of this handbook is to provide information which will aid chapter advisor(s) and officers in organizing, planning, and conducting chapter activities which will be meaningful and beneficial to all members, and at the same time be of service to their local schools and business community.

The handbook represents a compilation of materials, suggestions, and ideas submitted by DECA members, chapter advisors, and National DECA on how a DECA chapter functions to be of maximum service to its members. The handbook is meant to be a companion in resource with National DECA's Chapter Management System.

In an effort to continuously develop material to aid the association, we would appreciate it if you would send Michigan DECA any suggestions to improve the content of this handbook.

It is suggested that if printed, this handbook be placed in a three-ring binder. Then, as future revisions are made, the revised sections can be printed to replace the out-of-date pages.

Marketing Education and DECA

Marketing Education

Marketing Education is a vocational program of instruction for high school youth in the fields of marketing, and management. Classes are normally offered in the junior and senior years. These programs are under the direction of qualified teacher-coordinators. Programs at the post-secondary level in technical schools and community colleges are also becoming increasingly available.

The DECA Brand

Our brand captures the essence of our organization and communicates it to all of our key audiences.

DECA has an illustrious past that has touched the lives of more than ten million students, educators, school administrators and business professionals. Their strong connection with our organization has resonated into a brand that people identify as a remarkable experience in the preparation of emerging leaders and entrepreneurs.

All dynamic organizations and corporations periodically examine their message statements to refresh, clarify and strengthen their brand. DECA embarked on a two year process that involved researching the use of message statements in modern communication strategies; conducting focus group sessions with DECA's Board of Directors, State/Provincial Advisors, Chapter Advisors and Student members and our business partners; and sampling opinions of education policy makers and the general public.

The result is a contemporary and enhanced brand with updated message statements that collectively define our organization while retaining our historic connections and name recognition. DECA's key messages are communicated through our guiding principles, which are connected to our updated logo. The first set describes our signature methodology and connects to the inner points of the diamond. The second set explains the result of participation in our organization and connects to the outer points showcasing the polished leaders DECA prepares.

The synergy of a cohesive message shared among all members in our organization allows us to more effectively propel DECA's mission statement, guiding principles, attributes, values and brand essence. Our unified brand will result in improved recognition, convey or unique elements, develop allegiance and increase support for DECA.

We are stronger when we speak as one, so join us in communicating our message.

DECA's Importance

Importance to the Student

Marketing education students have common objective and interests in that each student is studying for a specific career objective. DECA activities have a tremendous motivational effect upon its members who may have no other opportunity to participate in planned school activities or to develop the responsibilities of citizenship and leadership.

DECA members learn to serve as leaders and followers and have the opportunity for state and national recognition that they might not have otherwise.

Importance to the School

DECA chapter activities are always school centered, thus contributing to the school's purpose of preparing well-adjusted, employable citizens. Chapter activities serve the teacher-coordinator as a teaching tool by creating interest in all phase of marketing and serve as an avenue of expression for individual talent.

The chapter is the "show window" for students achievement and progress. It attracts students to the Marketing Education Program, who are interested in careers in marketing and management, and assists in subject matter presentation.

Importance to the Community

DECA members have made numerous studies and surveys to aid the economic development of their own communities. Creative marketing projects, anti-shoplifting campaigns, civic consciousness activities and projects promoting the free enterprise system have contributed to this growth.

Many businesses favor employing marketing education students because of their interest in education and their related school study of marketing. Many leaders in business and government have praised the DECA program for its civic-related activities.

Importance to the Nation

Marketing education instruction and DECA activities constantly emphasize America's system of competition and private enterprise. Self-help among students is the rule, rather than the exception, and DECA leaders give constant encouragement to continuing education.

History has proven that whenever a nation's channels of distribution fails to function, that nation is short-lived. As DECA attracts more of our nation's youth to study marketing, the total marketing education program becomes a vital necessity to our national economy.

DECA's Organization

Marketing education students comprise a local school chapter. Each chapter elects its own officers, and the marketing education teacher or teacher-coordinator serves as chapter advisor. All chapters within a state comprise a chartered association of DECA, which is under the leadership of the Michigan DECA State Director. Each chartered association elects its own student leaders, or State Officers.

Any student enrolled in a marketing education program of instruction may become an active member of DECA through a DECA chapter. DECA is organized in two student and two support divisions:

Student Divisions

- High School (secondary)
- Collegiate Division (post-secondary)

Supportive Divisions

- Professional
- Alumni

DECA, Inc. is composed of chartered associations. Each DECA student division has its own elected national student leaders, chosen annually by the membership of that division. Overall control of DECA lies with DECA, Inc., the legal sponsoring group, which consists of representatives from each of the 59 chartered (state, territorial, country or provincial) units.

DECA, Inc., provides administrative control through a board of directors composed of eight voting members, two from each DECA region; and ex-officio representative from the U.S. Office of Education; the vice president of Marketing Education Division of the American Vocational Association; and the Executive Director of DECA.

An International DECA Career Development Conference is held each year for each student division. The Michigan association holds annual Leadership, District, and State Career Development Conferences.

Official DECA Colors

The official DECA colors are blue and gold. Blue suggests sincerity and genuineness. It is the color of the heavens above us, and it encourages us to reach ever upward, continually trying to improve ourselves and our services.

Gold suggests the crowing success which comes to those who live wise and useful lives. We all seek success, not solely for the weath it brings.

DECA's Logo

The Official DECA emblem is a diamond shaped design. To illustrate the evolution of Marketing Education from Distributive Education, a new logo for DECA was unveiled in 2010. The diamond appears to be moving forward. This represents idea that DECA is striving to keep pace as we go into the twenty-first century. Each point on the diamond symbolizes a working part of the organization: Vocational Understanding, Civic Consciousness, Social Intelligence and Leadership Development. DECA's strength and achievements are exemplified through the cooperation of the local advisors, school officials, students, parents and business people working together.

- Vocational Understanding – Marketing education students develop first-hand knowledge of marketing, merchandising, management and entrepreneurship, and the opportunities available in their chosen career.
- Civic Consciousness – Marketing education students learn to recognize their obligations to the community in which they live.
- Social Intelligence – DECA members develop poise and social graces, and become aware of the social environment through DECA social event.
- Leadership Development – DECA activities are designed to give students the opportunity to be leaders and followers.

State Career Development Conference

The State Career Development Conference is an inspiration to all DECA members who attend. Here they have an opportunity to meet and exchange ideas and experiences with their fellow members from all parts of the state. The conference is attended by over 4,000 high school DECA members, advisors, alumni, and representatives from the business community.

The Michigan DECA Career Development Conference has two main purposes: (1) to recognize outstanding individual and chapter achievements, and (2) to help marketing education students further investigate and develop for careers in marketing, merchandising, management, and entrepreneurship.

Attendance to the State Career Development Conference is restricted to the top finalists from the District Conferences, as well as participants in, written events, Chapter Awards Program, Leadership & Teamwork, Silver and Gold Merit Award winners, voting delegates, and State Officer Candidates.

The conference is similar to the State Conference, only involving over 22,000 DECA members from all chartered associations.

History of Michigan DECA

Chapters Develop Locally

During the period between 1937 and 1942, when cooperative programs in distributive education were becoming more widely established, the students in these distributive education classes began to form Distributive Education Clubs. This was a spontaneous effort on the part of the students and occurred simultaneously throughout the country. Why did this happen and what needs were these clubs filling? Several basic factors were involved:

First, distributive education students were employed away from the school campus at their training stations during the afternoon - at a time when many of the other students in their school were involved with the school's extra-curricular activities. The distributive education students were, therefore, missing a very important part of school life.

Secondly, these students of distributive education had a common interest - their great desire for professional and personal growth.

Thirdly, they felt the need - common to everyone - to belong, to develop socially, and to be a part of the group.

Thus, local chapters began to spring up all over the country. These early clubs adopted many names - Future Retailers, Future Distributors, Distributors, Future Merchants, and Distributive Education Clubs.

Between 1941 and 1944, when it became apparent that the strength of local chapters was growing and when they began to feel the need to communicate with each other, a few states held state-wide meetings of Distributive Education Clubs. By 1945, a few states had officially organized state associations and were holding state conferences. During this time, the idea of a national organization was born.

Many coordinators of local cooperative education programs indicated an interest to form both a local and a state-wide organization in 1947. A meeting of local chapter representatives was held on May 3, 1947, in Grand Rapids. At that meeting, it was decided that a state organization of business education clubs should be planned for operation. The Michigan Vocational Association sponsored the meeting and later voted to sponsor the state-wide club movement. Many coordinators, at that time, were engaged in a dual type of cooperative education program which involved training students for either distributive or office occupations. It was, therefore, decided that the club membership would be inclusive to both occupational disciplines. These plans were approved by the State Advisory Committee for Business Education.

First Constitution Adopted

On January 24, 1948, a constitutional convention was held in the East Room of the Hotel Olds in Lansing. The meeting was called to order by Joe Zagaroli, of Muskegon. At the convention, Joe was elected as the first President of the organization. At the constitutional convention, the following schools were represented as chapters: Battle Creek, Detroit Denby, Detroit Mackenzie, Detroit Redford, Grand Haven, Grand Rapids, Jackson, Lansing, Midland, Monroe, Muskegon, and Western Michigan College of Education. The constitution was ratified, dues were set at a maximum of 80 cents, with the amount being decided by the State Officers each year, and the state organization approved its first name, "Retail and Office Clubs of Michigan."

Michigan Chapters Affiliated with DECA

In May of 1948, the first annual convention of the Retail and Office Clubs of Michigan was held at Western Michigan College of Education in Kalamazoo. Three hundred state club members were in attendance. Mr. Lawrence Thamson, Chief of Business Education for the Michigan Department of Education, became the first State Advisor for the club.

In 1948, the Retail and Office Clubs of Michigan had a state membership of 850 students. Membership rapidly grew and many new local chapters were organized in the state. A year earlier, the Distributive Education Clubs of America was organized and the State of Michigan was one of the seventeen charter states to affiliate. Many of the local Retail and Office Club chapters affiliated their distributive education students to DECA.

State Newsletter Started

A state-wide newsletter to publicize the program and inform chapters of activities functioning at the local and state level was established. The first publication of the newsletter came off the press, without a name, on March 3, 1949. All local chapters of the Retail and Office Club of Michigan competed in a contest to seek a name for the newsletter. The contest was called "Name the Baby" and a $4.00 prize was offered to the chapter that submitted a relevant title. Detroit Redford High School's chapter won the contest on June 10, 1949, and the newsletter then became known as Chapter Chatter.

In September, 1985, Michigan DECA had a contest to name its newly developed 'tabloid' newsletter. Sabrina Jackson from the Averill Career Center entered the winning name Spotlight on DECA. The newsletter premiered in November, 1986. It is distributed three times each year to every Michigan DECA Member.

Students Attend Their First National DECA Conference

In 1953, the Retail and Office Club of Michigan adopted the colors of red and white as the state club colors. Also very important to our future was the attendance of the Detroit Retailing Chapter of the State Club at the National Leadership Conference of DECA. The sixth Annual National Leadership Conference of DECA was held in Dayton, Ohio.

Cooperative Education Club of Michigan Emerges

By 1954, the state club membership had grown to 1,300 members. St. Mary's Lake Camp at Battle Creek had been the site for five Delegate Congress meetings and would be the site for the next fifteen years.

In 1956, Mr. John C. Brickner joined the Michigan Department of Education as a consultant for Distributive and Office Education. Mr. Brickner was formerly a teacher and teacher-educator of distributive education at Indiana University, in Bloomington, Indiana. Mr. Brickner became the second state person to become the advisor of the state club.

As cooperative education programs in Michigan expanded, so did local club affiliation with the state club. In 1956, a study group was appointed to explore the possibility of expanding the state club through revising the constitution and by-laws. Removal of restrictive language and provisions limiting the club to retailing and office students was suggested, and the club could be made available to all bona-fide co-op students regardless of the occupation for which they are preparing and in which they are employed. On January 5, 1957, at the Tenth Annual Delegates Congress, this issue was voted on and passed unanimously. The Retailing and Office Club of Michigan then became known as the "Cooperative Education Club of Michigan" for the next eleven years.

Co-op Club Goes DECA

Membership in the Cooperative Education Club of Michigan had grown to a membership of 1,500 by 1960. Also in that year, the recommendation was agreed on that local chapters join any national student youth organization that would promote the interest of their local chapter. Many more local schools affiliated their chapters with National DECA.

In 1967, the Cooperative Education Club of Michigan had grown to serve students in distributive education, office education, trade and industrial education, and co-ops in other occupational disciplines. At the Executive Council meeting in August of that year, changes and developments in the state club organization and operation were reviewed.

It was recommended that a separate annual conference for each occupational area (distributive, office, trade, and industrial) be held with the understanding that the results be evaluated in an effort to determine the most effective and desired pattern for future operations. Of those replying, seven advisors voted to continue with the Co-op Club serving all occupational areas. All others voted in favor of a separate organization for distributive education.

At the twenty-first annual Delegate's Congress on January 6, 1968, an interim constitution which called for a Michigan Association of Distributive Education Clubs of America was ratified by a large majority. This change allowed for two separate state organizations, one for Marketing Students, and one for Office Students. On July 1, 1967, Mr. Richard J. Shupe became the State Advisor for the Michigan Association of DECA. Mr. Shupe, before joining the Michigan Department of Education, was a coordinator of Distributive Education and a local chapter advisor for the Waterford Township Schools.

In 1969, the Michigan Association of DECA had grown to 84 local chapters with 2,396 national members.

The Michigan Association's constitution was passed on November 14, 1969, at the Annual Delegates Congress. The Delegates Congress, as was past practiced, was to be changed to be an additional function of the annual State Leadership Conference in the Spring. For the first time, preparatory students who are not in a cooperative education program were to be considered as active members and be allowed full rights in DECA. This allowed students, in their sophomore or junior year, to be candidates for a state office, compete in contests, and be eligible to attend the State and National Leadership Conferences.

DECA Develops

As a part of the constitution, Michigan was divided into four regions of participation. During the 1970-71 school year, four Regional Career Development Conferences were held for the first time. The Detroit Region held its conference on February 23, 1971, at the Veteran's Building in Detroit. On February 17, two regions held their Leadership Conferences. The Southeastern Region was hosted at Warren Woods High School while the Mid-Michigan Region held their conferences at East Lansing High School. The Western Region was hosted at Western Michigan University by the Grand Rapids Ottawa Hills DECA Chapter on February 9, 1971.

The Fourth Annual DECA State Career Development Conference was held at the Olds Plaza Hotel in Lansing on March 16, 1971. At the Conference, each region's voting delegates elected their Regional Vice President and Mr. Richard Shupe relinquished the state advisorship to Mr. John A. Daenzer, a consultant for Distributive Education at the Michigan Department of Education. Mr. Daenzer, before joining the state staff, was a distributive education teacher-coordinator, a director of vocational education, and a teacher-educator at Northern Michigan University. Mr. Daenzer was assisted by Dr. Louis Graziano from Eastern Michigan University, who served as the first Project Consultant for DECA through a grant from the State Board of Education, Michigan Department of Education, Vocational-Technical Education Services.

On January 22, 1977, Dr. Carl Woloszyk replaced Mr. John Daenzer as State Supervisor for Marketing and Distributive Education and also became the DECA State Advisor. Dr. Woloszyk was a former CEPD Vocational-Technical Specialist and distributive education teacher-coordinator.

During the tenth annual Career Development Conference held in March of 1977, National DECA's new Competency Based Series Events (CBSE) was implemented for the first time. The move to the CBSE competitive events and the elimination of the former national contests, such as public speaking, job interviews, etc., led to the increased growth of the high school division of DECA so that by March of 1980, there were high school chapters with a membership of over 3,000 students, advisors, and alumni. Also at the tenth annual conference, Michigan was divided into nine Districts to accommodate the growing membership. Each district elected their own State Officer.

In June of 1977, Mr. Charles Crissey replaced the deceased Dr. Louis Graziano as State Project Consultant for DECA and assisted in the promotion and implementation of DECA chapters throughout the state.

On January 27, 1986, Mr. David Wait became the third Michigan DECA State Director, when Mr. Crissey left the position after almost 10 years of service to return to the classroom. Mr. Wait came to the position with four years teaching experience at the Averill Career Center in Saginaw. He was active with DECA for ten years prior to that - as a student member, collegiate member, and founder of the Michigan Alumni Division.

September 1987 saw the State Advisor, Dr. Woloszyk move on to become an Associate Professor in the Consumer Resources and Technology Department at Western Michigan University. Dr. Woloszyk's replacement was Mr. Thomas Benton. Mr. Benton taught for ten years at the Lapeer County Vocational Technical Center.

June 1996 also saw Michigan DECA's state wide membership grow to over 5,600 members in all five divisions. With this growth, Michigan DECA became the eighth largest state association.

We continue our growth every year. The 2019-2020 school year was a record-setting year, with membership at 8,900 members in 162 chapters.

The National Organization Develops

In 1946, the United States Office of Education invited a representative committee of State Supervisors of Distributive Education to meet in Washington, D.C., with representatives of the USOE, to develop plans for the national organization of Distributive Education Clubs and to prepare a tentative constitution and an organization chart.

As a result of this preliminary meeting, the national organization was launched and the first Interstate Conference of Distributive Education Clubs was held in Memphis, Tennessee, in April of 1947. At that meeting, delegates from twelve states unanimously adopted a resolution to form a national organization. The organization was officially endorsed by the National Association of State Directors of Vocational Education, meeting at the same time in Chicago, Illinois. Officers were elected and committees were appointed to prepare a charter and a constitution for consideration at the next year's conference.

The second National Leadership Conference, held in St. Louis, Missouri, in 1948 saw the adoption of the constitution and the official name, the Distributive Education Clubs of America, designated DECA, and the acceptance of 17 charter member states. These were: Arkansas, Georgia, Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Michigan, Missouri, North Carolina, Ohio, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Virginia, and Washington. The first issue of The Distributor, the national publication of DECA, was presented just prior to the second annual conference in St. Louis. From 1947 to 1953, the Oklahoma Distributive Education state staff edited and published The Distributor. In 1982, DECA's official publication was changed to New Dimensions and in 1991 became DECA Dimensions.

In order to provide interim leadership, the President of the National Association of State Supervisors of Distributive Education appointed a National Advisory Committee to serve in lieu of an executive secretary. In 1949, an incorporation meeting, made up of State Supervisors and Advisors of affiliated states, elected the Board of Trustees of the Distributive Education Clubs of America, Inc., to serve as the policy-making body for DECA. DECA was officially incorporated under the laws of the Commonwealth (state) of Virginia in 1950. While the Distributive Education Clubs of America (DECA) is a student organization and is operated by students under an adopted constitution, DECA, Inc., is the legal sponsoring group of the youth movement and is composed of the head state persons responsible for Distributive Education in those states affiliated with DECA, Inc.

The development of DECA has been closely followed by many outstanding national state and local business organizations, and many have given support assuring the continued growth of DECA.

The American Vocational Association, by vote of the House of Delegates, became an official sponsor of the Distributive Education Clubs of America on December 1, 1950.

National Headquarters Develops

In 1951, DECA committees began developing plans for a full-time national organizational structure. Included in these plans were a National Headquarters, The DECA Foundation, and other activities designed to promote the welfare of the chapters and the State Associations.

In 1953, a National Headquarters was established for DECA in Washington D.C., in space provided by the American Vocational Association. Also at that time, the first Executive Secretary of DECA was employed. George M. Stone of the J.C. Penney Company served in this capacity until 1955 when Harry A. Applegate became the new Executive Secretary.

In 1967, a Public Relations Department was added to the DECA Headquarters, and in 1968, a Publications Department was added with each department having its own Director. Both of these Departments have aided greatly in DECA development.

Dr. Applegate retired in 1981, and Dr. Fredrick Williford became the new Executive Director. Dr. Williford retired in September 1992, and Dr. Edward Davis served as DECA's third Executive Director. In 2014 Dr. Davis retired, and Paul Wardinski became DECA's fourth Executive Director.

The national headquarters was moved to 1908 Association Drive, Reston, VA 22091, with the completion of the National DECA Center. The new building was dedicated in September of 1976 by Secretary David Mathews from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The center was paid off in 1986, ten years ahead of schedule.

In 1989, the name of the national organization was officially changed by the Board of Directors from The Distributive Education Clubs of America to DECA.

Post-Secondary Division

Since 1958, some states have been sending delegations representing community colleges and other post-secondary institutions to the National Conferences in an effort to find ways and means to establish DECA chapters in such institutions. Official recognition was given to this effort in 1961 by a change in the national constitution to allow those states interested to form post-secondary divisions.

The first National Officer Training conference for this Division was held in December, 1962, in connection with the American Vocational Association convention in Milwaukee, Wisconsin. The following year, 1963, the post-secondary Officers met with the National Officers of the high school division in an effort to more closely coordinate the activities of both divisions. The post-secondary division then became known as the Junior Collegiate Division, then next as Delta Epsilon Chi. Today it is known as Collegiate DECA, and includes over 15,000 members in 200 colleges and universities.

DECA Grows Internationally

During the 1969 National Conference in Atlantic City, Alaska became the last state in the Union to be chartered as an affiliated State Association of DECA. Alaska's delegates received a standing ovation during the chartering ceremony symbolizing a true DECA welcome. Also in 1969, the Board of Directors granted approval to establish four DECA Regional Leadership Conferences as a part of DECA's Program of Youth Activity to provide additional opportunity for leadership development activities to a greater number of DECA members. Michigan is in the Central Region with Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Manitoba, Canada, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, Ohio, South Dakota.

During the 1970 National Conference in Minneapolis, voting delegates of both divisions of DECA approved a completely revised constitution. This major revision allowed for the expansion of DECA to five divisions. Collegiate and Alumni representatives held developmental meetings during the conference to draft by-laws for their divisions and to pay for divisional development.

Membership in DECA has continually increased each year from 793 members in 1947, to over 222,000 members in over 3,700 chapters in 2020. During each year of its existence, DECA has experienced a substantial membership increase. The number of chartered associations affiliated with this national youth movement has increased to encompass all 50 states, plus the District of Columbia, Canada, China, Germany, Guam, Hong Kong, Korea, Mexico and Puerto Rico.

With the additions of these international locations, the National Conference was renamed as the International Career Development Conference.

Why Join DECA?

DECA is the ONLY international organization operating in the nation's schools attempting to build status for careers in marketing, merchandising and entrepreneurship.

DECA is the only international organization working full-time to create good public relation attitudes toward all chapters and all student members.

DECA makes business and industry aware of marketing education as an important field of study for careers in marketing, merchandising, management and entrepreneurship.

DECA promotes prestige and recognition of chapters all over the nation, and is recognized by leaders in education and business as being a vital part of the total marketing education program.

DECA encourages individual and group initiative and competition, thus helping to "Develop Future Leaders" for marketing, merchandising, management and entrepreneurship.

DECA has the potential of becoming one of the largest youth movements in our nation's history. Many national companies are giving financial support in faith of DECA's future.

DECA provides each individual member with opportunities to become aware of America's Free Enterprise System.

DECA is YOUR professional organization. Materials are available to all DECA members and chapters.

DECA chapters have an opportunity for national recognition via the annual International Career Development Conference and other member service activities.

DECA desires and needs the support of every chapter, if its efforts to serve marketing education are to be successful.

Organizing a Chapter

Most of the essentials are already at hand for a teacher to form a DECA chapter. If properly organized, the chapter will be of great assistance to a teacher rather than add to his/her work load. The chapter is really the “show window” of your program, because through it, the public learns about marketing education programs and its purposes. It offers an opportunity to display teaching accomplishments and student's job performance. It affords the opportunity to involve interested parents and leaders in marketing. It provides a “teaching tool” for the instructor that can be utilized to bring out the best in each student member.

The marketing education teacher acts as the local chapter advisor. Membership eligibility is governed by international and state constitutions and by-laws, along with the local chapter constitution. Since DECA is co-curricular, chapter meetings should be scheduled during the regular class period once or twice a month as necessary. Often committee meetings can eliminate the necessity of having many chapter meetings of the total group. But all DECA activities must be approved by the chapter advisor and/or the local school administrator.

Many factors go into the making of a strong local DECA chapter. Among these are an alert and vigorous membership, an interested and sympathetic teacher-advisor, the selection of the best leadership in the group as officers, and cooperation on the part of the school and the local business community. However, the most important factors are the teamwork and interest of the member, and their determination to make their chapter an outstanding unit of their own creation. The key to a successful chapter is to involve all members in the planning of chapter activities. Use the following suggestions to allow students a voice in planning their program of work.

Chapter Officer Responsibilities

It is important for the growth of each chapter to have a well qualified and dependable group of officers. With capable officers, the business of the chapter will be conducted in the proper parliamentary fashion, an effective program of work which includes all members will be maintained, records and minutes will be up-to-date and complete, good publicity will be forthcoming, and all members will grow professionally.

Every consideration should be given by the membership in electing officers; it is a mistake to look only for the most popular members. Qualifications for the position to which the individual will be elected should be the prime consideration. Don't expect every officer to be familiar with the duties and responsibilities just as soon as they are elected, but be sure you have chosen a person who is willing to work hard to perform the duties and responsibilities of each office as well as knowledge of the qualities of leadership. Only with this understanding and knowledge can a good slate of officers be elected.

A leader is one who can communicate ideas and feelings and yet is willing to listen and understand the need for democratic procedures. A good leader respects the rights, the ability and dignity of every member and is able to convey enthusiasm and inspire confidence. A good leader is vitally interested in everything that concerns the chapter and the community, and is willing to put the good of the chapter before personal desires.

Each officer should be familiar with the chapter constitution and by-laws, and with the annual program of work. Each officer should know all ceremonies, be familiar with parliamentary procedure, and have a copy of the Chapter Handbook available for their use. Each officer should, of course, cooperate with other officers and all members at all times.

The chapter may want to consider electing a slate of officers each semester to allow maximum opportunity for leadership development.

Parliamentary Procedure

Parliamentary Procedure enables a DECA Chapter the opportunity to transact business with speed and efficiency. It protects the rights of each individual (both those in the majority and those in the minority). Parliamentary Procedure also preserves a spirit of harmony and cooperation in a group.

Types of Motions and Their Uses

What is a Motion? A motion is a form of bringing questions of consideration before an organization.

1. Main Motion

A main motion introduces new business and must be made when no other business is pending. It yields to all privileged, incidental, and subsidiary motions and must be seconded (if not, it will be lost from the floor). A main motion is debatable and requires a majority vote.

Rules for processing a main motion or resolution

- A. A member secures the floor
Member rises, addresses the chair, and is then recognized by the chair.)
- B. A member introduces business
Member makes a motion "I Move" and another member seconds the motion, and the Chair states the motion, which opens the question presented to discussion.
- C. The chair puts the question to vote
The chair takes the affirmative vote and must announce the result either carried or lost.

2. Subsidiary Motion

Relates to other motions and used for the purpose of changing them or closing debates on the matter.

- A. Motion to Amend (used to change motions to the satisfaction of the majority)
 1. Amend by: Adding, striking out, inserting or substituting
 2. Needs to be seconded
 3. Is debatable
 4. Requires a majority vote
- B. Motion to Refer to Committee
 1. Requires a second
 2. Is debatable
 3. Is amendable
 4. Requires a majority vote
- C. Motion to Postpone Indefinitely
 1. Requires a second
 2. Is debatable
 3. Is amendable
 4. Needs a majority vote
- D. Motion to Limit Debate
 1. Requires a second
 2. Is not debatable
 3. Is amendable
 4. Requires a two-thirds vote

3. Incidental Motion

An incidental motion does not apply to a main motion but is incidental to it (relates to other motions under consideration). It is used to rise to a point or order (parliamentary inquiry) or rise for information. An incidental motion has precedence over all other motions and is not amendable or debatable.

4. Privileged Motion

A privileged motion does not refer to the motion under consideration. It introduces a question that must be settled immediately. A privileged motion is not debatable and is used for disturbances, unfavorable room conditions and protects rights of the members.

Rules for Debate

1. Each member is entitled to speak once to a question, sometimes more often if there is no objection.
2. Members indulge in no personalities, avoid reference by name.
3. Maker of motion has privilege of opening or closing debate.
4. Members always make inquiries through the chair.
5. Chair must remain strictly neutral and must leave the chair (calling the Vice President to preside) to debate and does not return until the question is voted upon.

Rules for Voting

1. Methods for Voting

- A. Voice vote: "Aye" or "No" - used for majority vote
- B. Show of hands: "Affirmative or Negative" - used for small groups
- C. Rising vote: (members stand) "Affirmative or Negative" - used for two-thirds vote
- D. Roll call: Secretary calls attendance as well as the vote for "Affirmative or Negative"
- E. General consent: Chair states, "If there are no objections, the motion passes."
- F. Division on the House: used to verify a vote that is very close. Those voting "Affirmative" are asked to stand on one side of the room and those voting "Negative" stand on the other.
- G. Ballot: used for secret voting; each person writes the decision on a piece of paper

2. Types of Votes

- A. Majority: at least one more than half of the votes cast
- B. Plurality: (simply majority) the most votes cast regardless of majority
- C. Two-thirds vote: at least two-thirds of the votes cast
- D. Tie Vote: same number for and against; in this case, the motion is lost. (The Chair may vote to break the tie or may abstain.)

Chapter Activities

How Can Your DECA Chapter Contribute to its Members, School and Community?

Chapters can best serve their school and community if they provide a variety of activities throughout the year. Your DECA Chapter will get its full reward of enthusiasm and member satisfaction if it plans activities in each of the following recommended areas:

Benevolent Activities

Benevolent activities involves the helping of others with no regard for recognition other than the satisfaction derived from helping those in need. Suggested activities include:

1. Christmas party for needy children
2. Halloween Party for young children
3. Sponsoring an outing for Senior Citizens
4. Preparing Thanksgiving and Christmas boxes for the needy

Your local civic organizations can be contacted for more ideas concerning a benevolent activity for your community. Certainly, the possibility to serve the needy is unlimited.

Civic Activities

Civic activities are those that a chapter can serve its entire community. Civic projects can develop a wholesome reputation for your chapter. Many chapters sponsor or cosponsor such activities as:

1. Muscular Dystrophy Campaign
2. March of Dimes Drive
3. Special Olympics Fund
4. Heart Fund
5. United Way

Activities of this nature offer a valuable service to the community and develop respect for the local DECA Chapter. Other civic oriented activities inform the public about marketing education and DECA and develop good public relations. Chapters often enter floats in parades and sponsor booths at community fairs that tell the marketing education/DECA story. Through working with Chambers of Commerce and other local merchant and business organizations, a DECA chapter may provide a worthwhile service to their local business community by conducting a comprehensive Creative Marketing Project relevant to improving the business community.

The typical school offers a multitude of opportunities for a chapter to be of service. Some chapters assist in school-wide activities, such as clean-up drives and citizenship campaigns. Assembly programs such as an anti-shoplifting program can serve the school. Speaker or films of general interest can be presented to the student body in an open meeting of the chapter.

Professional Activities

Most chapters provide professional meetings to enlighten their members' knowledge of various career fields. Guest speakers, panel discussions, and films are specific problems relating to their marketing instruction. Possibly the most widely used professional activity is the annual Employer-Employee Banquet or DECA Appreciation Banquet. This activity is used by more chapters than any other single activity to create goodwill in the community.

Competitive events and project participation are also considered professional activities. District, State, and International Conferences provide the providing grounds for students to test their knowledge, skills, and ability with others. Recognizing individual achievement is only one objective of DECA competitive events and projects. Their basic purposes are to improve the knowledge and skills of students through practice and application. Win or lose, students profit from their experience.

Alumni follow-up is yet another type of professional activity. Many chapters sponsor annual socials in honor of past DECA members. Some have even established scholarships that are awarded to deserving graduates.

Sales Project Activities

There is no question about the importance of a chapter's finances. Sales projects are educational and fun when every chapter member participates. Sales projects provide a common goal for achievement and can develop into competition and enthusiasm among chapter members. Members are usually more enthusiastic about paying dues when they know their chapter earns the money it spends. Ideas range from special sales to promoting fashion shows, but the type of project adopted is of little consequence when compared to the pride members develop in a chapter that pays its own way as much as it can. Consult the annual DECA Guide for nationally approved projects.

Social Activities

Chapters should provide recreation for their members. One of the original philosophies of DECA, as true today as ever, is to provide social activities to make up for the school functions members miss because of off-campus work experience. Various social activities can be used to acquaint other students about your program. Increased public interest can result if other faculty members, area merchants, and parents are involved at the social functions. Activities that are well-planned help to develop social intelligence on the part of each chapter member.

Creating a Chapter Calendar

An effective DECA chapter plans ahead to ensure that dates are available so proper planning can take place resulting in successful activities. Chapters should also look at the Chapter Awards Program Guidelines to see how they can enter their activities for state recognition.

The calendar of activities should contain local, state and national events and should be posted in the marketing education classroom.

A calendar of activities identifies what, where, and most important, when an activity will take place. A calendar of activities designating the date (exact when possible) to carry out an activity, is necessary if the chapter is to plan meetings and carry out the activities efficiently.

1. As the program of action is developed, dates from carrying out an activity are identified.
(Example: Hold Christmas dance, December 16, 2010, at a cost not to exceed $500.)
2. After all committees have completed their list of activities, they should be listed in order by months.
3. The committee chairperson should go over the activity dates for the member approval.
4. The activities should then be typed on a form and reviewed with your school administrator for possible conflicts with other school activities.
5. After dates have been approved by school officials, the DECA Chapter Advisor, and the Chapter Officers, the calendar of activities should be reproduced and posted on a bulletin board.
6. The calendar of activities then should be used as a guide for developing chapter meetings. Example: an activity for January should be discussed at the November or December meeting, depending upon the amount of preparation needed. The activities carried out during January should then be discussed and evaluated during the February meeting.

It is important not to schedule too many activities during any single month. Activities should be scheduled throughout the school year. This will allow an active chapter to have the involvement of all members.

Fundraising

Many chapters prefer, either by choice or because of local school policy, to pay local dues or use school store revenues to take care of chapter responsibilities rather than participating in fundraising activities which will finance chapter functions. However, other chapters prefer to supplement their dues with funds that members earn through a team effort. These activities can either be called sales projects or fundraising projects. This type of activity can benefit every participating DECA chapter in at least five ways.

- Provides all members a practical method for selling experiences.
- Provides for planning and conducting a sales promotion event.
- Provides funds to carry out a beneficial chapter program.
- Provides an avenue to promote the school's marketing education program.
- Provides a learning activity which encompasses the entire merchandising process.

Sales project activities, conducted in the proper manner, will provide a learning experience as well as raise revenue for activities.

Careful planning well in advance is the secret to the success of any sales project. School policy should be investigated to ascertain philosophy regarding this type of activity. The school administrator's approval should be obtained.

The next step is establishing the necessary committees. Finance, publicity, project selection, and inventory groups all play a vital function. "Sales Meetings" can be most helpful in moving merchandise.

A great deal of consideration should be given to the selection of the product to be sold or the service rendered. DECA is a quality program and any merchandise or service sold connected with DECA should be top quality. The manner in which the activity is conducted will reflect upon the marketing and education program.

For DECA chapters interested in sales projects, National DECA attempts to identify reputable companies who offer an accepted margin of profit as well as an item that will have maximum acceptance by the buying public. Each of the approved National DECA sales project companies meet this criteria as well as the guidelines approved by the DECA, Inc., Board of Directors.

Some Helpful Hints on Fundraising Activities

- Be practical - Set a fundraising forecast and goal which your group can achieve.
- Be careful - Don't ask the public to contribute towards something that benefits "only" your members.
- Be informed - Be sure members know what cause you are raising funds for and how the money will be used.
- Be enthusiastic - It will help attract workers and contributions.
- Be realistic - Choose a project your members and public will enjoy.
- Be wise - Clear the proposed project with chapter membership, advisor, and school administration.
- Be alert - Avoid possible conflict with a competing event.
- Be aware - Check for possible local, state, federal, or union regulations.
- Be sensible - Choose responsible committee chairperson and competent committee members.

- Be organized - Develop a plan, a calendar, and check lists.
- Be business-like - Price your product, service, or entertainment sensibly.
- Be professional - Publicize and advertise your event. Use every promotional tool at your disposal.
- Be prepared - Double check every detail. Provide for emergencies.
- Be neat - Clean-up; leave no mess.
- Be appreciative - Send prompt thank you's to helpers and donors.
- Be a record keeper - Ask committee chairperson to submit brief summaries, plus complete Treasurer's report on cost and profits. These records are valuable for future fundraising activities.

Chapter Public Relations

Publicity

The public judges an enterprise by what it does and by what it says. If its purpose is sound, its services good, its people aggressive and successful, and its program beneficial, your community should be told about it. This combination of sound policies and good practices, multiplied by effective publicity, is what produces good public relations. This means simply winning the friendship and support of the public.

Good publicity for marketing education and DECA activities will perform several functions:

- Keep students informed and interested
- Attract additional students to the marketing education program
- Maintain pride among students and stimulate them to further progress
- Create interest on the part of the general public
- Create and sustain public support of the marketing education program and DECA

Building an Effective Program

One major objective of each DECA chapter is to present to the general public the importance and significance of your marketing education program and DECA chapter. Your chapter members will want to use the various public relations media available in your community. Your chapter will want to use one, or perhaps several, depending on the importance of your activity and the effectiveness desired.

The personal touch through speeches to civic groups, personal letters, and assemblies is an extremely effective means of reaching the public. DECA chapter members could speak before some of the following or similar groups on behalf of your marketing education program and DECA chapter.

- Advisory committee
- Business and professional clubs
- Chamber of Commerce
- Faculty meetings
- Kiwanis Club
- Lions Club
- PTA
- Rotary Club
- School assemblies
- School Board meetings
- Youth organizations

Public Relations Tools

Effective publicity is easier when you have good tools for the job. Many news media people will supply you with guides to follow in preparing copy for them. Tools for use by people charged with publicity responsibilities have been developed and are available.

A date book with room to note deadlines and plans is an invaluable help. Dates of important events and special projects should be noted in this book as well as a schedule of planned publicity. The schedule should include advance publicity as well as publicity at the time the event takes place.

Assemble a scrapbook of publicity as it appears. Keep notes on radio and television publicity and other media used. Send one clipping of every printed article to the Michigan DECA Office.

What is News?

Learn to recognize and use publicity for only those things that interest others. News media wants to capture the attention of their audience and hold it. Many DECA accomplishments will do this. You stand a good chance of having these stories used. Some things worthy of mention are:

- Leadership Conferences
- Outstanding speakers
- Tours and competitions
- Election of DECA officers
- Accomplishment of individual DECA members, promotions, and winners of competitions
- DECA awards won or awards given
- Events honoring major industry supporters or long-time industry supporters
- Scholarship awards
- Other events of interest as they occur

Writing a News Release

Five points are important to a good news release: Who, What, When, Where, and Why. If possible, a sixth How should be included. It is important to get all these points in the first sentence or two, whether you're writing for printed or broadcast media. These first sentences are called the "lead." A good "lead" captures the attention of a reader or listener and makes the reader or listener want to know more.

Now go into the details of your story. Each succeeding paragraph should be of declining importance. If any editor cannot use the whole release, the editor can then cut from the bottom—where the least important details are given. Use short words. Write short sentences, short paragraphs. Two sentences make a good paragraph in a news release. Be brief.

If possible, have a standard letterhead type format for your news releases. This should carry the name of the DECA Chapter contact, address, and telephone number—probably the name of your DECA advisor. (Many a story has failed to appear because the newspaper or magazine did not have a contact to call to verify a fact or name.) Always give exact dates in a news release: June 10, 2011 rather than "next Thursday" or "tomorrow". Specify "October" and not "next month". Eliminate adjectives when you write a news release. Be sure to check every point of your story for accuracy. Never guess on names, places, dates, or times.

Mechanics of Preparing a Release

News releases should always be typewritten, double-spaced on 8 1/2" x 11" plain white paper unless you have a standard letterhead type format. Use a quality paper that can be handled without tearing.

When identical, individually typed releases are sent out, be sure to list at the top of the release just which newspaper and broadcast outlets are getting identical stories. Be sure to keep a copy of every release you sent out. Leave ample margins (1 1/2 inches) on each side of the paper. In the upper left hand corner of the first page, type the name of the DECA Chapter contact, address, and telephone number. Next type the release date in the upper right hand corner. "FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE" means the editor or broadcaster can use it at once. If at all possible, your release should carry this notation.

If you MUST ask for a specific publication date, it should read, "RELEASE AFTER 4 P.M. THURSDAY, APRIL 10, 2011." Such releases complicate an editor's job, so should be avoided whenever possible. Always start typing your copy one-third of the way down the first page. The editor needs this space left open to write a headline for your story and give other instructions. (Most editors prefer to write the headline for your story, but a few may ask you to provide one). Type double-space or triple-space on one side of the paper only. Indent each paragraph at least 0.5 inches.

If your story must run more than one page, write "MORE" at the bottom of each page except the last. Always end each page with a complete sentence and paragraph. Start each succeeding page with the DECA Chapter's name at the top. Drop down one inch below this and continue your story. Type a few "####" under the final paragraph of the news release.

Many newspapers and magazines supply a style sheet or request telling how they capitalize, abbreviate, spell, and punctuate their copy. Follow the editorial style of each paper carefully.

Check your news release for absolute accuracy in typing. Make sure all names, dates, hours and places are correct. If there are unusual names, put a small check over each one to let the editor know you have checked them for accuracy. Never staple the pages of a news release. They must be separated in the news room and may be torn in the process.

Deliver or mail every release so it arrives well in advance of whatever deadline you must meet. Whenever possible, include a photograph with your release.

Photographs

Photo requirements are definite, paper by paper, magazine by magazine. They vary greatly depending on the make-up and budget of each one. Check with each editor to determine needs and requirements. Note carefully what each will supply and what you are expected to provide for the kind of photo publicity you need. Some newspapers will send a photographer to cover a story as will some magazines. Others will be glad to use photographs if they are furnished to them in proper form. Be sure - if you send photos - to follow the editor's direction for picture arrangement size and finish of prints.

Broadcast Media

In-school news channels, local public-access channels or public television might offer the opportunity for a show to explain marketing education and DECA. Such a show would help attract students to the program as well as create and sustain public support. Contacts at the cable television or radio station should be the program director or the news editor. They coordinate the public service time.

A few possibilities of shows that might be available to you are:

- Interview shows (if you have an important out-of-town speaker, here's a good place to try to arrange publicity)
- Panel or group discussions

Meeting deadlines and prompt appearance for live or taped shows cannot be stressed too much in your work with the broadcast industry. It is extremely important to arrive well in advance. Choose people to represent your program who are not given to nervousness and who have a pleasant speaking voice.

When you write releases for radio and television, the same basic rules apply as in newspaper copy. Be brief, accurate, and neat. Always submit on 8 1/2" x 11" plain white paper and typed double-spaced. The guide to radio and television publicity, "If you want Air Time," published by the Public Relations Service, National Association of Broadcasters, Washington, D.C., will be helpful.

Courtesy to the Press

It is a good idea to extend an open invitation to the press to attend any events conducted by your chapter. A special invitation should be extended for particularly important events. When they do attend, introduce them. If a reporter or a photographer attends any function, they should do so as your guest.

Provide each reporter or photographer who attends your event a typed list of the "important people" expected to be in attendance. Try to provide copies of any marketing education or DECA brochures which may help him or her understand your program and its purpose.

Remember to write thank you notes in a prompt manner to the papers, magazines, radio stations, and television stations who have given you publicity.

Preparing For DECA Events

What is a competitive event?

Competitive events are learning activities designed to evaluate the essential competencies needed for entry or advancement in marketing occupations.

How do I know which competencies will be evaluated?

Competitive events are developed from the competencies and job tasks required by industry for each occupational area. An exact listing can be obtained from a DECA Chapter Advisor, DECA Related Materials to use as a reference for preparation.

Will I have to do a lot of extra studying?

Probably not. Your teacher's instruction is based upon the same competencies used in the events. If you pay attention in class, you'll do well in competition. However, your teacher won't cover some competencies in class until after competition. Check with your teacher now to find out the areas you'll have to study on your own. You'll have to prepare for competencies in all areas.

How many events will I participate in?

Competitive events are organized into a series approach; you compete in a series of two or three individual events (based on the instructional areas) within a single occupational category.

Does everyone compete together?

No, each occupational area competes separately.

Why should I bother to compete?

Past participants have said that they learned and actually gained self-confidence by competing. It's a new experience, and you'll be hesitant at first. But, that's the same way you'll feel at a job interview or beginning to work at a new job. You're also representing your chapter- showing responsibility and initiative.

What happens if I win?

Everyone is a winner by participating, but special recognition is provided for those who do the best and place in each occupational area and level, will receive medallions and/or certificates. Comprehensive Exam, Judged Event and Overall Event places are recognized. Qualifiers from District Conferences go on to compete at the State Career Development Conference. Qualifiers from the State Conference will compete at the International Career Development Conference.

Who can compete at the State Conference?

The top district finalists in each occupational area and level qualify for state competition.

What type of events should I expect?

The events fall into 2 main categories:

1. Online Comprehensive Examination- a 100 item multiple choice test which evaluates your knowledge of general marketing competencies.
2. Judged Event- You will be asked to participate in a role playing activity in which you will have to perform, apply, or use job competencies with the evaluation being done by a judge. The judge will actually participate in the role playing activity.

How will I know what to do?

Each event will have a brief summary, a list of what competencies will be evaluated, and specific instructions.

Competitive Event Descriptions

Competitive Events are organized into a series approach. Each participant will compete in a series of two or three individual events (based on the instructional areas) within a single occupational category. The events are developed from the competencies and job tasks required by industry for each occupational area. An exact listing can be obtained from DECA Related Materials to use as a reference for preparation. The DECA member must decide which occupational area she/he is interested in competing.

The evaluation or actual event will consist of 2 categories:

1. Online Comprehensive Examination- a 100 item multiple choice test covering the following:
 - a. Comprehensive- evaluating knowledge in all instructional areas.
 - b. Unit- evaluates knowledge over one instructional area, i.e., math, communications, display,
 - c. Case problems- evaluates the members' understanding of a marketing problem and their ability to express their writing skills.
2. Judged Event (role play)- the member will be asked to participate in a role play or case study, using the specified competencies. The judge(s) may actually participate with the member.

Alumni DECA Background

This section is designed to assist Michigan DECA Chapters and Michigan Alumni DECA members. It is hoped that the reader will find this section a valuable resource in providing needed information and suggestions in carrying out a program of work for Alumni Members.

The purpose is to provide information which will aid chapter advisors and officers in organizing, planning, and conducting alumni activities which will be meaningful and beneficial to all members and at the same time be of service to their local schools and business community.

The following pages represent a compilation of materials, suggestions and ideas submitted from alumni members, chapter advisors, and state association advisors on how an Alumni DECA Chapter can function to be of maximum services to its members.

In an effort to continuously develop material to aid the division, we would appreciate it if you would send the Michigan Alumni Division of DECA any suggestions to improve the content of this handbook.

Alumni DECA

After more than five decades of continuous growth, DECA had developed into one of the most dynamic student organizations in America today. Marketing Education and DECA create a foundation for students in marketing, and from this foundation they are constantly building themselves from students to mature adults. As an Alumni Member of DECA, you will have endless opportunities to share your experiences as a member and assist others in their activities. In doing so, you will help those members get the most out of DECA. You will also gain knowledge and personal satisfaction while continuing to grow yourself. The success of an organization depends on its members. Since we change for the better as active Alumni Members, then what else could DECA do in the process, but become even greater and more dynamic!

Michigan Alumni DECA

The Michigan Alumni Division was formed in the Fall of 1978 by former high school members who wanted to continue to work with and support DECA. Since then we have grown in numbers, but more importantly, in service. Some of the activities the Michigan Alumni Division has undertaken include: assisting local chapter advisors and members, providing scholarships, and assisting at the State Leadership, District, State and International Career Development Conferences.

Besides assisting with the high school division's activities, the Alumni Divisions has its own meetings throughout the year to develop its program of work, along with opportunities to travel several times a year outside the state to International Conferences where one can learn and meet with other Alumni members.

HELP! For the Chapter Advisor

If you're like most successful Marketing Education Teachers, you need all the additional help you can get. Would you like some volunteers to help you in obtaining...

- Expert resource people for field trips or classroom presentations?
- Occupational experience programs or projects for your students?
- Judges and facilitators for participatory events.
- Materials and supplies for student shop projects?
- Support and communicating with your school board and administrators?

All the help you can use is out there wanting and waiting for you just to ask. There are thousands of former DECA members... and hundreds of them are probably living in your own area. All you have to do is make a one-time effort to get an active Alumni DECA Chapter started, and you'll receive the continuing lifetime support of a dedicated and interested group of people. Alumni are proud of DECA and appreciate its value based on their own experience, both in and out of business who would want to join with others to promote and support the DECA organization and activities.

You can be the catalyst in bringing together the organized efforts of former members to actively help DECA and Marketing Education. Alumni DECA is the medium through which past and current DECA members may mutually benefit. It can be the link through which your community can be kept informed of and participate in the promotion and support of the DECA program.

Why do we need Alumni DECA? With the expanding scope of the Marketing Education Programs, it's becoming more difficult to keep up with the additional activities. Former DECA members are a natural source of knowledgeable people to give you the help you need. They realize more than anyone what DECA means to youth, and the opportunity it offers young people in developing leadership, character, and good citizenship - in addition to preparing them for a career in marketing.

How can Alumni DECA help your program? First, the experience, skills, and talents of former DECA members can provide an almost limitless source for stimulation, developing and supporting your program of activities. An active Alumni Chapter can make facilities, materials and supplies available for special projects. They can participate as speakers, consultants, advisors, mentors and judges as well as in many other areas.

As active community members, they can provide guidance and counseling on career opportunities. They can also contribute to your curriculum development, based on their knowledge of current vocational need. They can help you make supervised occupational experience available to members. In many local areas, Alumni DECA members are very successful in securing job placement or cooperative placement opportunities for DECA members.

The activities of your local Alumni DECA Chapter will depend upon your local needs, but the possibilities are only limited by the imagination of the members. For more ideas on what other Alumni groups are doing around the country, contact: National DECA; 1908 Association Drive; Reston, VA 22091; (703) 860-5000, or Michigan DECA; Eastern Michigan University; Ypsilanti, MI 48197; (734) 487-3322.

How To Organize a DECA Alumni Chapter

The Alumni DECA Chapter should be organized in support of Marketing Education. Alumni DECA realizes that not all members are able to belong to a local chapter due to many reasons such as going away to school or not living near a chapter, but for those who are able to put in some time at the local level will find it even more rewarding. One way of starting a local chapter is outlined below.

- I. Develop a Steering Committee
 - a. Maximum of six members who are willing to work.
- II. Steering Committee Responsibilities
 - a. Develop proposed constitution for presentation at the first meeting.
 - b. Develop a program of activities for the Alumni members. Support activities that are needed by the DECA Chapter. Suggest a minimum of five activities.
 - c. Set a date for the first meeting.
 - d. Develop a plan for contacting former members of DECA
 1. Visit the Chapter Advisor and use their list of former members.
 2. The steering committee should personally contact as many people as possible.
 3. Contact by mail the remaining former members.
 - a. Develop a proposed slate of Alumni DECA officers for presentation at the organizational meeting. Important to secure persons committed to work.
 - b. Plan an agenda for the meeting.
 1. The program should start with a need and purpose. Both the DECA Advisor and steering representatives should present possible areas the Alumni DECA members could assist in the DECA program.
 2. Present proposed constitution for review, modification, and approval.
 3. Present proposed slate of officers. Acting moderator should encourage other nominations before electing officers.
 4. Develop a system for accomplishing the support and service needed form Alumni DECA.
 5. Establish a dues system which covers both State and National dues. Suggest keeping local dues minimal with funding primarily from Alumni members as expenses occur.
- III. Suggested System for Accomplishing a Program of Work
 - a. Requirement for membership includes payment of dues and commitment to support Marketing Education.
 - b. The Alumni DECA Chapter as a group should meet two to four times a year.
 - c. A Structured committee system must be developed.
 1. Committee system should be planned from the Alumni program of work. (Each Alumni activity could become a committee).
 2. Suggested Committees may include: Transportation, Finance, Membership, Social, Scholarship, Public Relations, Communications, Judging, etc.
 - a. Each Alumni member and their phone numbers should be listed by committees they will support and serve on.
 - b. Committee chairman should be selected.
 - c. The Alumni executive committee officers should meet monthly to supervise and coordinate the DECA Alumni Programs.

Lifetime Members can achieve this while at the same time building a financial base for the Michigan Alumni Division of DECA.

II. Membership Fees:

- b. The fee may be paid all at once or in installments.

 1. Apply twenty-five (25) dollars of their membership to the national program, or
 2. Have their annual national membership paid until such a time that their twenty-five (25) dollars is exhausted.
- a. Upon the establishment of a national lifetime membership program, the following changes will take place for all new members. Item A above will become seventy-five (75) dollars. The remainder of this section will become void.

III. Use of the Lifetime Membership Fees:

- a. The principle of the fee may be used only in two ways.
 1. To invest in a low risk high yield savings program, or
 2. To cover the members' annual membership fee for the first five years, if the interest will not cover the amount.
- a. Income from the investment may be used to:
 1. Make annual contributions to the Michigan Alumni Division of DECA for each member's annual membership fee, or;
 2. Cover promotional and operational costs of the life membership program (The program is intended to be self- supporting) or;
 3. Provide scholarships to DECA members, or;
 4. Aid in the development of the other divisions of DECA, or;
 5. Be reinvested
- a. Upon the death of the lifetime member, the original principle will be placed into the scholarship fund.

IV. Amendments:

Amendments to the Michigan Alumni DECA Lifetime Membership Program are to be submitted to the chairman thirty (30) days prior to any general membership meeting of the Michigan Alumni Division. The amendment then must be approved by a majority vote of the members present.
